

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	i
About the Authors	i
Project Background	ii
Key Findings and Recommendations	1
Executive Summary	2
Women and the War	2
Soldiers and "Wives," Cooks and Spies	2
Disarmament and Demobilization 1998-2000	2
Qualifications for Entry	3
Women and Girls in the Margins	3
Rising to the Challenge: Women's Campaign for Peace	4
Caring for Ex-Combatants: Women's Contributions to Reintegration	4
Conclusion	4
Introduction	6
Rationale	6
Assumptions	7
Methodology	7
Definitions	7
Peace Processes	7
Disarmament, Demobilization, and Reintegration DDR	8
Gender	8
Part 1: The Transition from War to Peace	10
Pre-Colonization to Independence	10
Cold War to Civil War	10
Violent Conflict and the Rise of the Civil Defense Forces	11
Women and Girls in Fighting Forces	12
Women and Girls as Full Members of the CDF	12
"Wives" of RUF Commanders in Camps and Command Structure	13
The Role of Women in the Peace Process	15
Women Tipping the Balance Toward Peace	16
Part 2: The Role and Experiences of Women and Girls in DDR	18
DDR Design and Implementation	18
Obstacles to the Participation of Women and Girls in Formal DDR	19
In the Disarmament and Demobilization Phases	19
In the Reintegration Phase	22
Expanding the Safety Net: Women's Contributions to Reintegration	22
At the Community Level	23
At the National Level	24
Conclusion: The Centrality of Gender Perspectives to DDR	26
Endnotes	28
Appendix 1: Methodology	34
Appendix 2: List of Acronyms	36
Appendix 3: Bibliography	37